

New directions in fractional differential equations

Juan J. Nieto

Departamento de Análisis Matemático, Universidad de Santiago de Compostela, Santiago de Compostela 15782, Spain

juanjose.nieto.roig@usc.es

Abstract: We present some classical and recent open problems in the area of fractional differential equations. Some of them arise when considering new fractional derivatives or by incorporating impulses or uncertainty.

Keywords: Fractional derivative; Fractional differential equation; Impulse; Uncertainty.

MSC 2010: 34A08.

References

- [1] X.-L. Ding, J.J. Nieto, Analytical solutions for the multi-term time-space fractional reaction-diffusion equations on an infinite domain, Fractional Calculus and Applied Analysis, To appear, 2015.
- [2] A. Khastan, J.J. Nieto, R. Rodriguez-Lopez, Schauder fixed-point theorem in semilinear spaces and its application to fractional differential equations with uncertainty, Fixed Point Theory and Applications, 2014(21) (2014), 14 pages.
- [3] J. Losada, J.J. Nieto, Properties of a New Fractional Derivative without Singular Kernel, Progress in Fractional Differentiation and Applications, To appear, 2015.